Restaurant conservation

And to start—some water?

Restaurant customers may soon have to ask for a glass of water instead of being automatically served if Assemblyman Gene Chappie, R-Roseville; gets Gov. Brown to urge such a policy.

Chappie cited the drought and energy crisis as two reasons for the move.

"More water is used to wash the glasses," Chappie said. "And energy is required to heat the water as well as generate the power of the dishwasher."

Some local restaurant owners and managers have already considered making such a move.

"We have talked about it among ourselves saying it was one way to conserve water," said Bobbie Reynolds, one of the owners of Marchand's in Pleasanton. "If it would really help, we would be glad to do it."

She said she had not thought about the energy conserving factor.

"But I can see where that would certainly enter into the total picture," Reynolds said.

She did not think customers would complain if they understood the reasons behind the move. And it would not make the waiter's job that much more difficult, according to her.

"It would be more of a problem in a way. We serve water routinely now ahead of time and that is that. It might be harder to have to stop and bring it on request."

In Pleasanton, one of La Rochelle's owners said they were still serving water but would comply with a cutback if necessary.

"I think about 80 per cent of the customers would complain if they had to ask. They are used to having water served and sometimes it is hard for them to change," he said.

Tod Bechtol, assistant manager of The Refectory in Dublin, said a decision to stop serving water automatically would have to come from that chain restaurant's head office in San Francisco.

"Personally speaking, I think if people felt the water supply was truly critical they would go along with a cutback," Bechtol said. "I know I have thought about doing it before but I would have to determine for myself how critical the supply is."

Bechtol said he had wondered if it would help to just fill the glasses half-way.

"But I would like to take a poll among the customers before doing anything," he said. "I don't think customers like to have to keep asking a waiter for things; not even water."

Jim Alexander, manager of the Red Baron Steak House in Livermore, said he would not enjoy having the cutback happen.

"But I would certainly comply if it became necessary," he said. "I think it would be hard to explain to the customers. They might get upset. We have no plans to stop serving water yet."

Still gotta wash 'em

Alexander said he had previously considered serving water only at customer request.

"We had heard about possible water rationing and thought about how we would cut back if we had to."

He agreed it does take a lot of hot water to wash and sanitize glasses.

The Valley Pancake House in Livermore has no plans to break their automatic water-serving routine.

"Not at this time," said Lynn Murphy, manager.

As far as conserving energy, she said she could not see that cutting back would make that much difference.

"We still have to wash dishes," she said.

Frederiksen K-6 headed for Fallon

Under the terms of a redistricting plan approved by Murray School District Trustees, almost all Frederiksen kindergarten through sixth graders will attend Fallon School on Larkdale in Dublin next September.

According to estimates worked out by Wally Moreskine, acting assistant superintendent, Fallon's enrollment will increase to 527. It has a planned K-6 capacity of 588.

The Fallon attendance area will be enclosed by Firethorn Way, and Brighton Drive to Lucania the south side of Brighton, and Langmuir Lane on the north, the railroad tracks on the east, the northside of Amador Valley Boulevard on the south, and highway 680 on the west.

EH classes would stay at Murray, which is planned for an enrollment of 387. Cronin K-6 would serve the area south of Amador Valley Boulevard and East of Village Parkway.

Parents speaking last night expressed grave concerns over traffic on Village Parkway and Tamarack, and the need for crossing guards and a four - way stop sign.

The feeder school plan worked up by Moreskine, and submitted at a previous board meeting, would have Dublin, Fallon, Murray and Nielsen seventh - eighth graders going to Frederiksen and Cronin, Donlon and Lydiksen to Wells. The latter is the sole seventh - eighth grade school in the district now.

The attendance area plan adopted by the board revises boundaries for Murray, Fallon and Cronin.

The Murray area would be enclosed by the county line on the north, the railroad tracks on the east, north of Firethorn Way and Brighton Drive to Lucania, and the north side of Brighton Drive, and Langmuir Lane on the south, and highway 680 on the west.

Steve Wallace, speaking for a rapidly growing number of Frederiksen area parents opposed to conversion, presented a petition to trustees with 517 signatures earlier in the meeting.

All requested the board to rescind their decision to convert Frederiksen to a seventh - eighth grade facility by next September.

"We believe that an additional junior high is needed," states the petition introduction.

"However, we believe that you the trustees acted in haste when you chose Frederiksen and did not even give proper consideration to your own Citizens Advisory Committee recommendation.

"We feel that any conversion should be done in conjunction with a school closing, that you should make a further and more thorough study to determine which school in fact be closed now; not conversion now and a school closing one or two years down the road," Wallace said.

"This study may or may not alter your choice of Frederiksen as the school to be converted, however, everyone would feel more comfortable with your decision if they felt due consideration was given to all possible alternatives, including conversion and closure at the same time."

State survey

School sites asbestos safe

Structures in five Valley school districts are almost totally devoid of asbestos content, which is purported to have possible cancer-causing ingredients.

Some of those structures that were built prior to the 1950s are the primary suspects. However, with the exception of the main school building at Sunol Glen and possibly a pre-50s structure moved to the current Pleasanton School location, the districts have no buildings with asbestos fibre in either the ceilings or wallboard.

Wilson Riles, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, wrote the state's 1,057 districts last week asking them to check documents or run tests to determine the asbestos content of their structures.

Murray School District maintenance and operations supervisor Stan DeCoito was to perform a precautionary check this week, after receiving a memo from Acting Superintendent Heinz Gewing.

However, all of the Murray schools were constructed after the 50s.

Doug Rose, Amador-Pleasanton assistant superintendent for business services, says that after 1950 "it is hard to find school structures with asbestos fibre in the bonding agent."

George Bury, superintendent - principal at Sunol Glen, said he and his maintenance man would be checking the sound proofing ceiling tiles and shingles at the school in the next couple of weeks.

Bury said to his knowledge most if not all buildings at Sunol Glen are of plaster and concrete.

He will also check with contractors to double check the content of the structures.

The main classroom building, which contains the office, was built in 1925. The other buildings on the grounds were constructed in the 1950s and the latest classroom building in 1970.

With the exception of San Ramon High School and one elementary school, the bulk of San Ramon school district structures were built from the late 1950s on.

State health officials were quick to point out, however, that asbestos can be a cancer-causing agent when it is inhaled and that asbestos "locked in concrete" is not a problem.

Not going, but proud of invitation

PLEASANTON — Just for the record, George and Hallie Bolton of Abbie Street got an invitation to Jimmy Carter's inaugural.

"We saw the stories in the paper about others getting invitations; we thought you should know we got one, too," said Hallie Bolton.

She and her 73 year old husband are proud of their small, annual contributions to the Democratic Party and believe that is the reason they were singled out among many other Carter contributors for an invitation to the outdoor inaugural.

But the Boltons won't be flying to Washington. They will watch the proceedings on telvision in the comfort of their home while other, hardier souls like Pleasanton Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire stand out in the Eastern cold wave to watch America receive its 39th President.

There were two classes of invitations sent out: the few thousand which invited top Democrats and other officials to the inaugural balls scheduled for Washington Thursday night and the many thousand more which invited lower echelon party faithful to the inauguration.

Four named to growth commission

PLEASANTON — Jim Hertl, Brian Hoyt, Ann Rathjen, and James Trimingham were chosen by the city council in a special session Saturday morning to serve on the city's growth management commission.

They will fill the four citizen positions on the 11 member committee.

The housing authority still must name its representative to the committee and developers also have been asked to nominate people for one builder's seat on the committee.

A meeting of the committee has been set tentatively for Jan. 27 at the City Council Chambers.

New job for Santa Rita boss

Howard "Bud" Garrigan

Emergency chief

Howard T. "Bud" Garrigan, top man at Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center for the past three years, has been promoted to chief of the Office of Emergency Services.

A Pleasanton resident for 14 years, Garrigan will transfer to his new post in Oakland Jan. 24. He replaces Chief John D. Moore, a Valley resident and sheriff's department employe for 20 years.

The 43-year-old Garrigan was a city planning commissioner for 10 years, and is currently a member of Pleasanton's Recreation and Human Resources Commission. He begins his 21st year with the sheriff's department this month. Garrigan and his wife Juanita have a son and a daughter.

Newly - promotpd Chief William M. Foster, 51, will assume Garrigan's job as Chief of the Detention and Corrections Division at Santa Rita. A 25-year department employe, Foster has previously been assigned in the criminal division, Office of Emergency Services, marshals office at San Leandro - Hayward Municipal Court, and Santa Rita.

He and his wife Louise live in Hayward. They have two sons.

Lieutenant Louis N. Santucci Jr., 48, of Livermore, has been named to take over as executive officer at the sheriff's substation in San Leandro. He replaces Captain Ronald W. Cain, 37, of San Lorenzo, assigned to direct new officers as the Departmental Training Manager.

She scares burglar

A 15-year-old San Ramon girl's screams routed a would-be burglar from her bedroom Saturday morning, sheriff's deputies reported.

William Wise of Davona Way, told deputies he heard his daughter, Liz, scream a little after 1:40 a.m. Saturday.

Liz said she felt a cold hand on her chest and woke up to find the ski-masked prowler standing over her with a small flashlight. She said she screamed and he ran out of the house.

Subsequent investigation revealed the burglar had turned off the electricity before entering through an unlocked door leading from the family garage, deputies said.

No property loss or injuries were reported.

Ban the ban

The Regional Water Quality Control Board will consider lifting the current ban on additional sewer hook-ups at its regular monthly meeting today in Oakland.

Local officials expect no action on the agenda item, since none of the board's requirements for lifting the ban have been acted upon.

RWQCB members will meet at 9:30 this morning in the Assembly Room, 1111 Jackson St. in Oakland. The items listed are to be considered in the morning session.

The Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) will hold a meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Livermore City Council Chambers, 39 South Livermore Ave., to consider funding alternatives, management services and status of the existing joint powers agreement.

Look at ambulances

The meeting will be held at the auditorium in John Muir Hospital in Walnut Creek.

The committee will vote on mutual aid agreements between counties on which county has jurisdiction on bridges and in tunnels on emergency ambulance runs; which ambulance company responds to an accident in which county zones; a back-up system when the first ambulance company is unable to respond and regulations governing non-emergency medical transportation.

Family arrested for resisting arrest

LIVERMORE — Attempts by officers to write a traffic ticket resulted in the arrests of three members of a Del Norte Drive family late Saturday, police reported yesterday.

Arrested and booked on suspicion of resisting arrest were William Patrick Hetherington, 39; his wife, Sharyn Dell, 37; and their son, Patrick John, 18, all of 790 Del Norte Drive.

According to reports, officer Robert Springer and reserve officer Fritz Frick spotted a pick-up truck exit the Granada Shopping Center about 9:30 Saturday night. Officers reported the truck had driven through the stop sign at Barcelona as it turned right onto Catalina.

A traffic stop was made at Holmes and Paris streets. While Springer was writing a citation, young Hetherington drove up, stepped out of his vehicle and talked with officers.

Police reported that after handing William Hetherington the citation, he said he would see the officer in court. Springer said that Hetherington then added, "I'll see you at your house first."

When Springer asked if that was a threat, Patrick Hetherington approached the officer and allegedly said, "I'm was (sic) going to shoot you between the eyes with a gun," police reported.

Springer told Frick to arrest the younger Hetherington when a scuffle broke out. Police said he grabbed Frick and fought to the ground as the elder Hetherington joined in, wrestlinq with Springer.

Police said Sharyn Hetherington yanked Frick's hair until he elbowed her away. William reportedly broke Frick's watchband and pulled the officer's tie into a noose around his neck until the fight was broken up.

No injuries were reported as a result of the struggle.

Driver in accident reportedly possessed seconal

PLEASANTON — A 16-year-old Pleasanton youth involved in an injury - accident at Sierrawood near Muirwood early Sunday allegedly was in possession of 52 seconal capsules, police reported.

Two citizens at the accident scene told arriving police they saw the driver drop something into nearby bushes. Officer Ron Reid recovered a plastic bag containing 52 seconal capsules.

The youth was cited for driving under the influence of drugs and driving without a license. He was arrested and booked on suspicion of possession and possession for sale of a controlled substance.

Car theft attempt ended by neighbors

LIVERMORE — Five juveniles trying to steal a car on Kathy Way late Saturday were thwarted by neighbors who spotted the crime, police reported.

Officers said five youths were attempting to push - start a Toyota about 10:15 Saturday night. Neighbors called police and chased the youths away.

One citizen who ran out trying to locate the would-be thieves found two suspects hiding in the bushes. One asked if no charges would be pressed if the car were returned; the other pulled a knife and forced the man to return to his house.

The car's owner was found a short time later. Police said the keys had been left in the car.

Vandalism suspect arrested at Carriage House

LIVERMORE — A 28-year-old First Street resident was arrested Friday night on suspicion he broke five quarts of liquor at the Carriage House because the bartender would not buy his girl a drink.

Norman Leroy Mustain, 28, of 2333 First St. was arrested and booked on suspicion of malicious mischief.

According to reports, Mustain entered the Carriage House about 7:30 Friday night with a girlfriend and bought her a bottle of beer. He then wanted the bartender to buy her a beer, but he refused and told them to leave.

Mustain allegedly became angered and poured her beer on the floor. Police said he then picked up two ashtrays and threw them at the liquor counter, breaking five quarts of liquor.

Mustain was arrested about a half-hour later at a nearby bar.

10 violations cited after high-speed chase

PLEASANTON — A chase that hit speeds of more than 80 mph as it wound from Stanley Boulevard to an apartment complex on Vineyard Avenue ended with a citation naming 10 different violations, police reported.

Arrested and booked at Santa Rita on suspicion of resisting arrest, reckless driving and failure to yield to an emergency vehicle was Dennis McGinnis, 21, of 3767 Vineyard Ave.

Officer Marcus Johnson said he saw the suspect vehicle doing better than 60 mph as he passed it going eastbound on Stanley. He made a quick U-turn and pursued the vehicle with lights and siren activated.

Johnson followed as the suspect vehicle allegedly went over double-yellow lines to pass, and failed to stop for the stoplight at First and Vineyard.

The suspect finally stopped in front of his apartment on Vineyard, and reportedly told Johnson that he was surprised police could keep up with him.

McGinnis also had a $70 outstanding traffic warrant.

Loaded revolver, beer taken from minor's car

LIVERMORE — A loaded revolver and two open beer bottles were recovered from a car with minor occupants Friday, police reported.

The driver, Steven Douglas Baldwin, 19, of Hayward, also reportedly had outstanding warrants for carrying loaded and concealed firearms.

Kids launch 'save school' drive

DUBLIN — Primary children at Frederiksen School have taken up the placard of protest in an effort to "save their school" from conversion to a seventh - eighth grade facility.

The children voluntarily gathered the signatures of 34 other students at the school and, after drawing self portraits of themselves on a cover page, presented the petition to the Frederiksen Parent-Faculty Club.

Some parents in the Frederiksen School area previously mounted a petition drive to press their opposition to the presently K-6 school's pending conversion.

Murray School District trustees were to have acted on a redistricting plan at last night's board meeting.

The action to redistrict would be a major step toward making Frederiksen School a seventh-eighth grade school next September.

There has been continuing opposition to such an action since the board indicated it would move to make Frederiksen the conversion school. The Citizens Advisory Committee, which met and gathered data for almost six months on conversion versus status quo, had recommended that Dublin School be converted.

The primary students who took around the petition on their own volition include Gia Buscaglia, Shelly Pate, Kamden Thomasson, and Kandace Thomasson.

Two of the students even penciled in messages — "Love, Gia and Shelly" and "Fredricksen is not a junior high."

Small stage center?

LIVERMORE — Springtowners may not be numerous enough yet to support their own complete shopping center, so property owner Christopher D. Sickels is asking the city's permission to build one in smaller stages.

Sickels, of San Diego, wants to build his commercial enterprise on a 6.83 acre parcel next to the Holiday Inn.

Planning commissioners are scheduled Tuesday to consider an environmental impact document which asks that the requirement for initial stages of the shopping center development be reduced from 66⅔ per cent of the project to 39 per cent.

Proposed is a 23,810 square foot building and 150 parking spaces.

Commissioners will also look at two items concerning signs.

In addition to a continued discussion about freeway related signs and possible use of logos on collective signs, the commissioners have been asked to comment on the proposed design and installation of a new city sign along I-580, near the airport.

In other business, the planning commission will:

— Look at staff modifications to a tentative tract map for 262 single family residential lots on 89.5 acres at the east end of town.

19th and 20th centuries

One of Pleasanton's oldest landmarks got a new, small landmark of its own yesterday as workers with a crane boom attached this placard to historic Kolln Hardware. The building has been a hardware store for a long time and has been known as "The White Corner" because of the traditional coat of white paint on the structure which dominates the corner of Division Street and Main Street. # VCSD looks at revised budget

DUBLIN — The Valley Community Services District finance committee has completed a review of proposed adjustments pertaining to the VCSD mid-year budget and recommends they be approved by the board.

Their adoption will be considered tonight at 7:30 by VCSD directors.

The adjustments involve all of the departments related to the operation of VCSD. They include: legislative, executive, finance, fire, public works engineering, parks, recreation, San Ramon Olympic pool, VCSD swim center, sewer system and water system.

At mid-point in the 1976-77 fiscal year there was a projected surplus of $79,158; a decrease of $23,891; an increase of $23,300; and an adjusted budget of $78,567.

In December, VCSD department heads were requested by the finance committee and general manager to review their actual costs to date. They were asked to project their anticipated needs for the remainder of the fiscal year. Where there were significant variances between actual costs and budgeted costs, it was suggested department heads request transfers to eliminate the underspending or overspending within their own departments.

The fire department was the only one that could not come up with needed funding from within existing funds. Fire Chief, Philip A. Phillips said there is a need to hire an assistant fire chief and an additional firefighter. In order to do this, he has requested more funds.

The VCSD finance committee recommends a decision be deferred regarding additional firemen until the next VCSD budget deliberations are held.

Other items to be considered by the VCSD directors relate to park planning, a flagpole at Dublin Sports Grounds, Dublin United Soccer League schedule, the Dublin Valley Little League, Inc., and hearings from the floor.

August takes stand

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Boyer August, the demoted San Ramon High School administrator, contended in court Monday that he was demoted in part because he stood up for students, even "streakers."

During part of Monday's Superior Court testimony, August said his attempt to help a student who had run naked through the high school keep a bank scholarship was in part to blame for his demotion from Dean of Boys to teacher.

August has sued the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, alleging that his right to freedom of speech was violated when he was demoted to teacher.

He will continue to testify when the trial resumes at 1:30 p.m. today.

In testifying, August reviewed conflicts he had with the high school prinicpal James Cousins, who is now a teacher at Monte Vista High School.

Cousins refused to back down on a decision both to suspend the streaking student and to drop him from the scholarship competition, August testified. He noted that other streaking students were treated less severely.

During the testimony, August noted that he had fought for the rights of students, and in several cases, had taken issues to the school board.

August said that he was warned that he might be fired as an administrator and demoted to teacher. He was demoted in March, 1975.

He fought that action, demanding public hearings on his demotion and he contended that his efforts on behalf of students were the cause.

At one point, August said that he knew five years ago his job would be in jeopardy if he spoke his mind to district administrators, particularly his views on the rights of students.

Lawyers for the school district noted that 51 of the 90 teachers and adminstratiors at San Ramon High signed a petition favoring his demotion.

August said he's suffered a $5,000 a year cut in pay and believes, "I'm dead career-wise."

"No one in Contra Costa County is going to hire me as an administrator," August said.

Creative Dynamics starting

LIVERMORE — New classes are now forming for both the basic and intermediate courses in Creative Dynamics, to begin Monday, Feb. 14, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Classes are conducted at Portola School, free, "open to anyone interested in developing the potential of the mind."

The Basic course topics include self - esteem, cooperation, maturity, controlled attention, enthusiasm, goal - setting, creative imagination, the principle of love, positive thinking, habit patterns, physical and mental health, disciplines, meditation and values and priorities.

Lee Littlepage is the instructor.

Creative Dynamics courses provide a systematic presentation of techniques and principles in a lecture - discussion format. The course stresses that each of us has complete responsibility for his or her own life, and that because we are free to choose our thoughts, we can adopt positive constructive attitudes which reflect into every area of our lives.

The two main principles are the Law of Cause and Effect and the Law of Harmonious Attaction. The first law states, "For every result there is a cause, and every cause must have a result."

True feelings and beliefs are reflected in life conditions and experiences. "What you think is what you become. You can be successful at being a failure or successful at being a success — it requires the same amount of time and energy."

"Like attracts Like" sums up the Law of Harmonious Attraction. Happy people attract other happy people to them, and depressed people find themselves surrounded by others of similar mind.

Anyone who has graduated from a Basic Creative Dynamics class may attend the Intermediate course, taught by Bob Routh and Barbara Rawles. Signups are the evening of the 14th at Portola School.

Aid for Komandorski

County wants federal funds here

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County supervisors have agreed to pursue $1.4 million in federal Housing and Community Development act funds for the unincorporated areas, including public works improvements in Dublin and Komandorski Village.

The third year funding application follows nearly $1.2 million in similar federal monies the county already has received.

The bulk of the funds, some $225,000, will go toward refurbishing the Happyland area outside Hayward.

But county spokesman David Taussig said $359,000 claimed for general public improvements in conservation areas "could be used" in Komandorski Village and Dublin.

The funds would not go toward demolition or construction of Komandorski Village, which is run by the City of Pleasanton, but possibly for trash dumpsters, a youth center or recreation facilities at the low income housing project.

A citizens advisory committee is studying a list of priorities.

Another $100,000 is slotted for aiding the handicapped via sidewalk ramps and ramps at doorways to public buildings.

The application also calls for $353,000 in rehabilitation loans and housing assistance.

The current application will be followed by another asking for $1.6 million in other housing and community development act funds for the "urban county" of Alameda.

The county's smaller cities — Livermore, Pleasanton, Newark, Union City, Albany and Emeryville — process their grant applications through the county planning department.

Those funds, if the application is approved by county supervisors, go toward public work projects in the cities.

Stockton man at Chamber

PLEASANTON — A report on downtown merchant activities in Stockton will be given the Chamber of Commerce at the membership's Tuesday luncheon meeting.

Ed Coy, executive director of Stockton Downtown Merchants Association and a past state director in that same field will be the speaker. The chamber meets 12 noon at Hap's Restaurant.

Planners boost trade schools

PLEASANTON — The planning commission recommended unanimously to the city council last week that trade schools be permitted as a conditional use in the industrial district.

The commission was responding to a request for advice from the city council. The referral grew out of the city council's rejection of a request for a church and school in Johnson Industrial Park.

A majority of council members felt that putting a church or school in an industrial area could have a censoring effect on industry which otherwise might have gone in next door to the church or school property.

However, the city council thought that an industrial school might be compatible with industrial district uses.

Control for quick stop markets

PLEASANTON — In an effort to control the location of small convenience food markets, the planning commission last week recommended that all food markets be required to have conditional use permit approval.

The recommendation will go to the city council soon for final disposition. The city council thought up the idea in the first place and referred it to the planning commission for advice. The council wants restriction on location of convenience markets because they seem to pose problems of traffic safety and pedestrian access in some areas.

The planning commission vote to put both large and small markets under the conditional use permit process was 4-1. The majority felt that problems could arise in defining a convenience market, so to insure a look at all convenience markets, every food market will need the use permit.

Commissioner Walt Wood was the lone dissenter. He thought the majority was possibly just being expedient by lumping all markets together and wanted to spend more time defining the problem with convenience markets and what type of solution is best.

Brad Hirst, a local resident who is a realtor and once served on the planning commission, voiced a couple of other concerns about putting food stores on use permits. The commission should look at food stores where food may be prepared on site or off site, he said.

Mori on liability committee

Assemblyman Floyd Mori has been appointed as a member of the new Joint Legislative Committee on Tort Liability.

The committee was formed to study California's tort liability system which requires doctors and hospitals to pay huge insurance premiums for protection against possible malpractice lawsuits.

"Rising medical costs caused partially by skyrocketing malpractice insurance is only one of the liability insurance problems we will study," said the Pleasanton Democrat. "The California consumer is also faced with inflating costs for auto and homeowners' insurance. And rising prices of consumer goods is partially a result of the need for manufacturers to pay ever - increasing insurance costs to cover defects in their products."

Mori said he is also concerned about "the difficulties school districts and cities are having in obtaining liability insurance at any cost." The Assemblyman is "afraid we've become a litigation - conscious society and, as a result, we must now re - examine the effectiveness of our tort liability system." He is optimistic the committee will push major reforms to solve the problems.

The Assemblyman also feels strongly about adequately compensating victims of incapacitating injuries. Assemblyman John Knox of Richmond is the chairperson of the committee and other members include attorneys and lay people.

FIRST, SOME BAD NEWS.

This winter many PG&E residential customers will be receiving bills substantially higher than last winter.

For example, if your bill ranged from $48 to $73 a month last winter, it will range from $58 to $90 this winter. Unless you conserve more energy.

HOW COME?

The cost of fuels necessary to supply energy has skyrocketed. In just 5 years, our cost for fuel oil and natural gas will have increased five-fold, accounting for most of our rate increases. We can't control all these increases. And we can't control the weather. Drought has greatly reduced our output of cheap hydroelectric power, and made us even more dependent on costly oil and gas to generate electricity. About a third of your electric bill pays for these fuels.

NOW, SOME GOOD NEWS.

You can do something about it. You can further control the energy you use and, consequently, the amount of your bill.

We have lots of good information–useful booklets to help you keep your winter PG&E bills from going out of sight. These are free and available at any of our offices. Call or drop by soon for your copy.

WHAT BOOKLETS WOULD YOU LIKE?

THE MIMES

We, the lucky ones, who attended the L.A. Mime Company's performance on Saturday night in Pleasanton, were witnessing an ancient art. I do not know when I have enjoyed a performance quite so much, starting with the pianist, who seemingly could not play right, until he discovered his music was upside down, and on through over twenty skits, without dialogue, but with the meaning quite clear.

Lighting and sound effects and musical accompaniment helped with mood and meaning, but it was the imaginative and skillful acting of the mimes that filled the audience with laughter.

Mime must be as ancient as man. Cave men must have come back from the hunt full of braggadocio, and having a limited vocabulary, must have acted out the part of the cunning sabre-tooth, then his own prowess with spear and the great struggle that ensued. He must have torn up the neat little cave quite a bit just enacting that battle of man against beast, before he would allow the little woman to start the roast.

The ancient art was used by the Greeks of antiquity. They lolled around in their togas holding their sides, laughing at their coherts who were represented ludicrously in dramatic farce, the players using only gestures to the accompaniment of the chorus.

The L.A. Mime Company presented over twenty little pantomimes which were delightful. Mime strikes a responsive chord in us, because although it is human behavior greatly exaggerated, we recognize the truth in it. It strikes at the heart, or rather the seat, of our pride, and unmasks us as the ridiculous creatures that we are.

Then why do we enjoy it? Because, though we see ourselves as buffoons, we also see the great dignity of individuality revealed. The individual character of real persons, as they are, or as they might be, has been studied and recreated. The mime theatre, working with few props and no dialogue, presents ONLY the character and refined, polished and purified, there is no missing it.

Why go to all this trouble to write, produce and direct something which deals only with human character, if human character is not worth bothering with? So we are all valued, in all our faults. Especially with our faults!

I imagine that everyone in the audience went home and asked one another, "Which one was your favorite?" Meaning the skits. It is hard to pick a favorite, because they were all so good, but I really liked the Motorcycle saga. Two girls represented motorcycles by bending over, faces up and arms back for the handlebars. The cyclists clasped their hands from behind and stood behind them, but the impression was that they were motorcycles.

One motorcycle, owned by a Hell's Angel type, had a fierce expression on her face. Obviously a very cool chopper. Then up "drives" another cyclist. The expression on the face of his cycle is very meek, and I had to assume it might be only a motor - bike, especially since the driver had a little red plastic helmet, very uncool, on top of his head, and he waved and smiled at the tough cyclist who only glared back, as he was COOL.

But then the interesting thing was that when they were ready to race, the bashful cycle changed its expression to real determination. I felt there was a message in that somehow, to be learned about ourselves

One skit, perhaps that was my favorite, featured a character who looked and acted like Charlie Chaplin as the Little Tramp. He was very sad, so he prayed for happiness. Then there was thunder and lightning, and he climbed a ladder to Heaven and shook hands with God who gave him a gift. He opened it up, and found that it was a gift of smiles. He put one on himself, and then went around putting smiles on everyone, and took the extra smiles and threw them out to the audience. Everyone was happy except one girl. The Little Tramp discovered he had no smiles left. Finally He gave the girl his own smile. And he had none. But he then turned his own sad mouth upside down, and happiness reigned. The Mime troupe left us only with smiles.

With just a few lines, Rob Anglin can capture the essence of a person's character. He will perform this feat for fun-seekers at the upcoming Monte Carlo Nite at Pleasanton.

A sketch in 10-minutes captures the inner you

By Lucy Hobgood-Brown

If you start feeling as if your every move is being watched — and you aren't sure by whom — don't rush away from Monte Carlo Nite Feb. 5 without finding out! Some quick checking around the Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall in Pleasanton will lead you to the Pleasanton Art League's booth, where Rob Anglin will be caught in the act.

Rob is a compulsive sketcher. Crowds seem to hold an irresistible attraction for the 25-year-old artist, who can often be found in an out-of-the-way corner putting his impressions of people down on paper. Using pen and ink, Rob can catch the essence of someone's personality in about 10 minutes.

An architect for Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Rob is a graduate of Amador Valley High School and Arizona State University.His fluid line drawings are simple in design but unexpectedly rich in character.

"I don't try for a photographic likeness," says Rob, who only takes his eyes off his subject to glance at the sketch for reference.

The architect, who is the art league's vice president, will sketch Monte Carlo fun-seekers for a fee. "I try to get in tune with my subject matter," Rob explains, "and try to feel like them. In 15 minutes I can come up with three totally different views. A tilt of the head, a different mood can change what that person is in a moment."

He admits to being very protective about his work. "People probably won't like the way I make them look — but the sketch will look more like them than a photograph." Every sketch, he adds, is based on his awareness of the subject.

A new interest in watercolor painting and sketching takes up much of Rob's spare time, but he believes he is "very lucky to have found a job that I love so much." Not having to draw or paint in order to make a living leaves the architect with the opportunity of turning his creative initiative to whatever area interests him.

The Pleasanton Art League's booth will be one of over 30 clubs raising money for the community on Monte Carlo Nite. The club that raises the most money will be honored at the Mardi Gras Ball Feb. 15 at Castlewood Country Club.

Food preparation got you down?

Have you been feeling kind of down lately about the whole food shopping and preparation operation? If it's been getting to you, and you're spending more time and money on food than you think you should, take a look at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's new booklet designed to help you solve just these problems.

"Food for the Family — a Cost Saving Plan" is full of tips to help you cut costs and the time you spend in meal preparation. It also includes special time saving recipes and charts to help you make sure your family members are getting all the foods they need.

By comparing prices at the store and trying lower priced brands, you may discover that you like them just as much as more expensive ones. Decide if it's worthwhile to bake at home rather than buy bakery products — after you know the cost facts. This and other information is available by writing for the booklet. Send 45 cents to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 21E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Seniors

Slides of Pleasanton and Livermore will be shown at the Thursdav, Senior Californians of Dublin-San Ramon. A sack lunch will precede the program at noon and coffee will he furnished. Anyone 50 years old and over is welcome to attend. The 1:00 p.m. meeting will be held at Shannon Community Center.

Bob and Elaine Koopmann

AN OUTSTANDING YEAR of development in the city's commercial, cultural and social values drew enthusiastic praise from a gathering of civic leaders at the annual Community Development Awards banquet.

Organized by the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, the Friday night gathering drew some 220 Pleasantonites and former area residents to Castlewood Country Club. Installation of the chamber's 1977 slate of officers was another feature of the evening at which Assemblyman S. Floyd Mori was a speaker.

Highlight of the ceremonies was the "President's Award" given by the outgoing chamber leader in recognition of outstanding community service in the past year. Dewitt and Lilly Ault received that honor from Merle Telford in recognition of their long service to Pleasanton youth and civic affairs. Mrs. Ault is a former member of The Times' editorial staff.

Investors in downtown properties dominated the "Development Awards." Bob and Elaine Koopmann were saluted for their "Adobe Plaza" center on Ray Street, including preservation of the century - old "Kottinger Barn" on that property.

Conversion of an ancient Main Street structure into "Hacienda del Sol" restaurant won honors for Sandy MacTernan, Donald Debolt and Joseph Lanza.

La Rochelle Restaurant won a citation for Jerry Bindi, Johnny Ciarabellini and Luigi Bruno "for fine cuisine and excellent service."

Ricardo's El Tizon Restaurant brought honors to Chris and Glenda Beratlis, the building's owners, and to Ricardo and Sonja Castro, operators of the restaurant.

Marchand's Restaurant on Santa Rita Road was saluted as were the owners, Robert and Barbara Reynolds.

The Gooch - Caroline Building on Main Street earned a citation for Ken Gooch and John Caroline.

Robert and Carol Molinaro and Tony and Shirley Macchiano were saluted for their "dedication to the community" and their Pleasanton Garbage Transfer Station was cited for its contribution to the waste disposal industry.

Don Perry's Central Tire was saluted for its contribution to the city's industrial base, while the board of directors for Alameda County Fair Association were honored for "a history of meeting community needs."

Allied Brokers, Ron Smith and Mark Moyers were given a framed citation for "total participation in the life of the community." George Cole and Cole's Market were applauded as an example of the hundreds of Pleasanton business owners who support local youth programs.

An outstanding community effort in the bicentennial year brought awards to the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission headed by Brad Hirst, and to those local organizations and individuals who made that program possible.

An unusual, and highly popular award was that given to a neighborhood group, and two families in particular, for their efforts leading to development of Loma Alta Playground in the Pleasanton Meadows area. Larry and Jacquie Oliverius, Jerry and Sue Twomey were singled out for special tribute.

Highlight of the 1976 Community Development Awards were those given to Chris and Olive Hanifen, identified with the community's business and educational services for over a quarter of a century; to John C. Kolln and Kolln Hardware, successors to a business founded over 100 years ago; to Eleanor Mote for service to her church, to youth, to her community and to the nation. Mrs. Mote has long been identified with programs originating with the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church.

The assembled civic leaders also heard a pledge of active service from Bill Hirst, installed as chamber president to succeed Merle Telford. Mayor Robert Philcox served as master of ceremonies. Peter Bailey was chairman of the Community Development Awards Committee.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have never been able to take aspirin. Is there any other medicine as good to take the place of aspirin?

DEAR READER — A medicine should be chosen for a particular purpose. Aspirin is useful in both relieving pain and in decreasing inflammation.

I do not know why you can't take aspirin, but accepting your statement I would suggest that you avoid any of the available medicines you can buy without a prescription that also contain aspirin. To give you a list of these I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines. Others who want information about these medicines can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78209.

You can use Tylenol as it does not contain any salicylates found in aspirin. It will be useful in relieving mild pain. It will not relieve inflammation. Medicines to relieve inflammation should be prescribed by a physician. The amount of aspirin it takes for this effect is too much to take on your own. A physician may wish to prescribe Motrin. It also is useful in relieving pain, but it is no more effective than aspirin treatment in equivalent amounts.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old girl and have an intimate sexual relationship with my 17-year-old boyfriend.

I am concerned as to whether I can become pregnant if my virginity is not taken. We use the withdrawal technique. Is there any possibility that I can conceive if the hymen is not ruptured?

My boyfriend is confident that no sperm can inundate the ovary if the hymen is still intact. Personally I tend to believe this too, but I am having apprehensions. I hope you can allay my fears.

I don't want to face the embarrassment and heartbreak that an unwanted pregnancy would bring on my family and myself.

DEAR READER — First of all, the withdrawal technique is one of the least reliable forms of birth control, and it is the most commonly used method in active youngsters — including those who should know better.

It only takes one sperm cell united with an ovum to induce a pregnancy. A small amount of sperm at the vaginal opening can result in pregnancy.

No, the hymen does not have to be broken for pregnancy to occur. This membrane-like structure already has a hole in it or is torn at the time a girl begins menstruating. There is no other way for normal menstrual discharge to occur. The opening that permits passage of blood also will permit passage of sperm cells.

You might ask yourself why you and your family would be embarrassed or have heartache if you were to become a mother. I suspect you will say that it is because your parents would not approve of your life style. I can't make your decisions for you, but you should resolve your feelings about this before you run the risk of pregnancy. Your own responses, your parents' responses, your partner's responses, and what happens to an unwanted baby are all things every girl should carefully consider in deciding what life style she will choose. It is better to confront these basic facts while one still has a choice rather than after it is too late.

Q. "WHY DO KANGAROOS CARRY THEIR YOUNG IN A POUCH?"

PAMELA KRYSTOPOLSKI
PITTSBURGH, PA

A. KANGAROOS ARE VERY TINY AND UNDEVELOPED WHEN THEY ARE BORN. THEY MUST LIVE IN THE MOTHER'S WARM STOMACH POUCH, WHERE THEY FEED ON MILK, UNTIL THEY HAVE GROWN ENOUGH TO LIVE OUTSIDE THE POUCH.

DICK ROGERS
© 1977 by NEA, Inc. TM Reg U.S. Pat. Off. 1-17

The kangaroo is a large Australian animal that hops around on powerful hind legs. The mother carries her baby in a pouch or pocket on the underside of her body.

Baby kangaroos start life in a very helpless condition. When born, it is very tiny and undeveloped. A newborn kangaroo is not much over an inch long. As soon as the baby is born, it makes its way to its mother's pouch, even though it is blind.

Inside the mother's pouch is a nipple. The baby kangaroo fastens it smouth to the nipple and feeds on the mother's milk.

By the time it is about six months old, the young kangaroo (called a joey) is big enough to climb out of the pouch and hop around. The joey continues to live in the mother's pouch until it is too big to get in.

Animals raised in pouches are called marsupials (pronounced mar-SOO-pee-uls). The opossum is the only marsupial that lives in the United States.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

West's three-club opening is one of those desperation bids that match-point players like to try. Sometimes they work. On other occasions they explode in the desperado's face.

South might well have passed the takeout double and let West struggle. He would have gone down three or four, but South decided to gamble on three notrump.

West's five of diamonds was covered by dummy's 10. East played his king and returned the nine to dummy's queen.

South cashed dummy's ace of spades to guard against a possible 4-0 break. Then he led the king of clubs. West made the mistake of grabbing the ace right away, but he had some method in his eagerness. He wanted to lead the jack of hearts.

He did and South played dummy's trey. East played the 10, South won with the queen and just took the rest of the tricks by the simple expedient of cashing all the spades to squeeze West out of his guard in either diamonds or clubs.

The 11th trick at notrump was just frosting on the cake. Not bothered by a preempt, the other North-South pairs all reached four spades and either made it or went down one depending on the whole play. But 620 for making four spades was a loser against 630 for making four notrump and 660 for making five.

Ask the Jacobys

A Montana reader wants to know if ♠ A K Q x x x ♥ A K x x x ♦ x x should be opened one spade or two spades in standard American.

Two spades is the correct opening bid. You may get too high, but a one-spade opening is a trifle inadequate.

AFC intercepts six, beats NFC 24-14

Associated Press

SEATTLE — Cornerback Mel Blount of the Pittsburgh Steelers intercepted one pass to kill a scoring threat, then stole another to set up Ken Anderson's second touchdown pass of the game, helping lead the American Conference to a 24-14 Pro Bowl victory Monday night over the National Conference.

Anderson, the quarterback of the Cincinnati Bengals, connected with San Diego wide receiver Charlie Joiner on a 12-yard touchdown pass in the second period, then put the game out of reach with 6:47 to play, finding Oakland's Cliff Branch on a 27-yarder.

About midway in the fourth period, with the NFC trying to wipe out the AFC's 17-14 lead, Blount picked off a pass by St. Louis' Jim Hart in the end zone, thwarting an NFC drive to the Americans' 12-yard line.

And moments later, with the NFC on its own 32, Blount stepped in front of Minnesota rookie Sammy White at the left sideline, stole Hart blind again and returned the ball 16 yards to the NFC's 27.

Two plays later, Anderson's pass to the wide-open Branch in the left corner of the end zone assured the AFC of its fourth victory in seven inter-conference match-ups.

The game in the Kingdome attracted a record AFC-NFC all-star crowd of 63,214, surpassing the record of 53,647 set in Los Angeles in 1972 and exceeding by nearly 5,000 the combined attendance total of the previous two Pro Bowl games, both won by the NFC.

In all, the AFC intercepted six NFC passes. The NFC also had one interception. Both the single-team and two-team figures broke Pro Bowl interception records.

At the outset, it appeared the American Conference would have success similar to its recent performances in the Super Bowl — namely, a thorough thrashing of the Nationals.

The AFC built a 10-0 lead in the first period on a three-yard touchdown run by Buffalo's O.J. Simpson and a 31-yard field goal by Toni Linhart of Baltimore. Throughout that quarter, the Americans moved the ball steadily and held the Nationals to just one first down. It was very much like Oakland's performance eight days ago in the Super Bowl, when the Raiders thoroughly manhandled Minnesota on the way to their 32-14 victory.

But in the second quarter, the NFC came to life. Mike Thomas of Washington ran a draw play for 15 yards to the AFC 15, then ran another draw for another 15 and a touchdown to cut the AFC lead to 10-7. Roger Staubach's 12-yard pass to White was instrumental in that 55-yard, six-play drive.

But Thomas turned quickly from hero to goat. The next time the NFC got the ball, he coughed it up, fumbling away a Staubach handoff, Pittsburgh defensive end L.C. Greenwood pounced on it and the AFC had the ball just 18 yards from a touchdown.

It took Anderson just 53 seconds to get it, hitting Joiner, who made a diving catch in the middle of the end zone.

The Nationals came back to cut the halftime lead to 17-14 on a one-yard TD sweep by Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles. It came two plays after Staubach hit a leaping Ron Jessie of the Rams on a 43-yard bomb to the AFC one.

The defender on that play was Blount. He wasn't beaten. Had he been any closer, he would have been called for pass interference. It was just a perfect connection.

The third period was scoreless, with the AFC having the only serious threat. Linhart tried a 48-yard field goal, but it was far short and wide to the right.

Tigers are tops after crunching

Fremont High of Oakland defeated Castlemont for the second consecutive time this season to hold on to the number one spot in the East Bay Prepwriter's Poll released this morning.

The Tigers nabbed all seven first place votes to garb the honor, while the Knights didn't suffer too bad, staying in second place with a 12-2 ledger.

St. Mary's made a significant move, from seventh to third, while McClymonds moved up a spot to fourth and Berkeley was fifth. Northgate High, whose 14-1 record is second best among East Bay teams, moved up to sixth place.

The shuffle was caused by St. Joseph's, formerly third in the poll, who dropped a Catholic Athletic League contest to St. Mary's last week. The Pilots, 14-4, are in seventh place.

The East Bay Athletic League gained honorable mention in the poll for the first time since the pre-season poll when Amador, 8-7, fell points short of a spot in the poll and settled for an honorable mention.

The Dons, 4-0 in league play and all alone atop the EBAL standings, will face a stiff test Friday evening when they host the 3-1 San Ramon Wolves, who lost their first game of the EBAL campaign by two points to Livermore last week.

Other Friday basketball action will pit Granada (3-1) against winless California, Livermore (2-2) hosting Foothill (2-2) and Dublin visiting Monte Vista (2-2). Both the Gaels and Grizzlies, without a win thus far, could pull surprises as they have played their opponents fairly tough. The Gaels and 'Stangs have already played once this year, that being in the Del Oro Tournament where Monte Vista prevailed, by three points.

NCS gives OK to TOC play

The North Coast Section board of managers has agreed to take part in the Northern California CIF Regional Basketball Tournament at the Oakland Coliseum.

"We will also ask that our AA champion be given consideration for one of the at-large berths," NCS commissioner Paul Gaddini reported from the meeting in San Ramon Saturday.

The CIF Regional is better known as the Tournament of Champions, bringing together sectional winners from Oakland, San Francisco, Central Coast, Coast, and Sacramento - San Joaquin sections of the CIF.

In other business, the board of managers voted to stage championship competitions for girls in tennis, swimming and softball.

Gaddini confided with all 30 members of the board of managers, comprised of school officials from each of the NCS's 15 leagues.

Last year, when the first NCS basketball playoffs were held, St. Joseph's of Alameda won the AAA title, but because the NCS and the regional tourney's officials failed to reach any sort of agreement, St. Joseph's did not take part in the TOC.

Holzman praises Warriors after a beating

By Dave Weber

OAKLAND — Red Holzman was holding court at the doorway of the steamy visitors shower at the Coliseum Arena Sunday afternoon, telling anyone who'd listen how good the Golden State Warriors were.

Of course, the crusty Manhattan legend could afford to be generous with his words. His New York Knicks, currently in possession of 80 per cent of a potential Atlantic Division all-star team had just knocked off the Warriors, 111-97, in front of 13,155 witnesses.

Without Spencer Haywood, who stayed in the Big Apple with a form of shin splints, the Knicks still managed to get all five starters into double figures — four over 20 points — as the Warriors just couldn't adjust to a baseline screen New York used over and over to free Bob McAdoo, Jim McMillian or center Lonnie Shelton.

Of course, it didn't hurt the high - scoring Knicks that they were on the eve of a two and one-half day respite from National Basketball Association play and thus got in at least 40 minutes apiece.

The Warriors host Denver tonight at 7:30 p.m.

So what did Red say?

"The Warriors have a million things they can do — it's gotta be the coaching, Al (Attles) does a helluva job over there," he began. "They're very sound, they run their offense better than anyone and they have some very great players."

But "over there" in the Golden State lockerroom, Attles was contemplating some changes in his coaching, angry with the offensive performance of his team and wouldn't have wanted to be forced into naming any individual who did a "very great" job Sunday.

Al Attles

"They were runnin' us, rather than us runnin' them," Attles said, reffering to 12 inside hoops by the Knicks, who burned the Warriors on 14 of their 25 turnovers.

"We may have to change personnel within the team," he added, saying, "You go to certain people for certain things but it only works if the other people are doing what they're in there to do."

Those remarks have been particularly true of the third period, in which the Warriors have lost incredible amounts of ground in recent outings.

At halftime Sunday, Golden State trailed by seven. By the start of the final quarter, the Warriors were down 22.

"We've already gone to lay-ups at halftime, Attles joked. "Maybe we'll go to calisthenics in the locker room next."

In a more serious vain, the even - tempered Attles said that the Warriors may have to bring in a different group of players at the outset of the second half than those who get the bulk of the playing time in the first two quarters.

Around any team floundering at a level seemingly far below its potential, there is always talk of two things: trades and dissension.

Attles forsees neither.

"We're always looking to improve our team," he said, "But no one's lookin' to help you in a trade unless they get exactly what they want."

As for the rumors of discontent among the players, Attles said, "You always have the same types of problems on any team, although winning seems to override that.

"I'm sure if you went in and asked any one player if he didn't like any other particular guy, I'm sure the answer would be 'no.'"

Keith Sweet

To tell the truth

By Dave Weber

By week's end, we'll have a president who says he'll never lie to us. How has that sterling example from on high affected folks on the valley sports scene?

"I'd like to be proven a liar," said Keith Sweet, coach of Foothill High School's surprising soccer team yesterday afternoon. How so? Well, back before the East Bay Athletic League season began, Sweet expressed a hope the Falcons might win seven matches this year.

Nine games into the season they've already accomplished that and to top it off, Foothill, 1-12-1 in 1975-76, leads the EBAL by two points with five games to go.

All of which isn't bad for a team whose coach had scarcely heard of the game nine years ago. A high school football player in his native Michigan, Sweet's first contact with soccer came in 1968 when he met Johnny Moore, now with the San Jose Earthquakes in both a playing and administrative capacity and Ian Lang, a major District III youth soccer personality, while living in Castro Valley.

When he moved to Pleasanton shortly thereafter to accept a teaching position at Harvest Park School, his son reached playing age and Sweet coached his first soccer team — at the under-8 house league level.

Then came the call to Foothill and the soccer coach's job which Keith claims he got on the basis of his scholastic ability. "I was the only one who could spell 'soccer,'" he jokes.

The Falcons horrible showing in their first varsity season last winter made Sweet wish he was illiterate.

"It was a miserable year," he recalls. "We were always arguing and it was hard to get the kids to do what I wanted. If I could have hired a psychiatrist for myself and one for each of the players, I would have."

This season has been a bit different — so far.

"This is the most fun I've ever had coaching, although we do have one little problem," Sweet admitted, adding, "The kids think they're going to win it."

And, obviously, with five teams within four points of each other at the top of the EBAL standings, no team can lay claim to superiority just yet. But the Falcons certainly have enough enthusiasm to collect the trophy in three weeks.

"Now they're not only doing what I say, they're doing it with all they can muster," said a pleased Sweet of his team, which includes nine veterans of last season's debacle.

Building around a strong defensive backfield, Sweet has installed a 3-2-2-3 offense he learned from John Shaw of Chabot College.

A sweet moment for Foothill

"Just the numbers alone indicate power up the middle and speed to the outside," Sweet, who decided before the season that his team would have to rely on fullbacks Cliff Woodward, David Albert and Steve Kent, pointed out.

"We don't have a big scoring punch," he said, glancing at an array of newspaper articles mounted on his office wall. "We haven't scored much in the first half and sometimes haven't scored till late in the second half.

"If I was going to rate our team in terms of football, I'd say we have a Super Bowl defense, a quarter-final midfield and a semi-final front line," Sweet added, though pointing to the play of halfbacks Bruno Delaurier and Paul Schaut as one of the bigger plusses this year.

Not to mention goalkeepers Bret Bevilacqua and Dave Konecny.

"I've been kinda getting blase about some of the things David's been able to do in front of the net for us," Keith said sheepishly. Sweet attributed the improvement of Foothill's back line to a growth in both size and experience over last year.

While praising forward Dave Laudenbach, Sweet admits that the Falcons, "Must develop some offensive people — we don't have highly talented midfielders like Amador (with All-American Brad Boldrini) does."

No, but for a time, at least, the Falcons have something better — first place.

Barnes gets one year prison term

Associated Press

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Marvin Barnes, a former Providence College All-American now with the Detroit Pistons, was ordered Monday to serve one year in prison for violating a probationary sentence.

In issuing his ruling, Judge Anthony A. Giannini of Providence Superior Court denied Barnes' request for a work-release program with disadvantaged youth either here or in Detroit.

Barnes remained free pending an agreement between defense and prosecuting attorneys on a date the sentence will begin. Giannini said he would let Barnes finish the current basketball season.

The judge had agreed last month to give Barnes' attorneys until Monday to draft a plan under which the young basketball star could help youngsters who had run afoul of the law.

However, Giannini rejected two plans offered by the lawyers, saying he did not think Barnes would be a very good example for such youth.

"In reaching its decision on this motion for reduction of sentence, the court has evaluated the past and sought to perceive the future," Giannini said.

"It is important to recall that the defendant has been convicted of a crime of violence and that he avoided imprisonment by a simple promise ... that he would be of good behavior for a specified period.

"It is a promise he knowingly undertook and it is a promise he knowingly breached."

Barnes was placed on three years' probation and given a one-year suspended sentence in 1974 after pleading guilty to assaulting Providence College teammate Larry Ketvirtis with a tire iron.

The young basketball player, who declined comment on Monday's decision, was arrested last year after being found at a Detroit airport with an unloaded pistol in his luggage.

Under two separate work-release proposals, Barnes would have either worked with the Opportunities Industrialization Center here or with two youth oriented groups in Detroit.

The Michigan program suggested that Barnes spend 40 hours per week during the offseason and five hours a week during the season by assisting officers at the 15th police precinct in Detroit.

"It is suggested that he (Barnes) amend that breach (of the law) by lending his fame, his time and his talents to divert young people from criminal behavior," Giannini said. "The need for such diversion is clear to the court.

"What is not so clear is that the defendant's participation in either one of the programs submitted to the court would have a salutary effect upon those his presence may influence."

Giannini also pointed out that if Barnes had been arrested in Rhode Island instead of Michigan for carrying a concealed weapon, he would have been subject to an additional prison sentence of two years.

Since appearing before Giannini last month, Barnes has pleaded guilty in Massachusetts to carrying a concealed weapon. Sentencing was delayed pending the outcome of the Rhode Island case.

Meanwhile, Piston General Manager Oscar Feldman, contacted in Detroit, said he was disappointed with the decision. However, Feldman added: "I accept the judge's conclusion. I think he tried to be fair."

Starr, Sayers in Hall

SEATTLE — Frank Gifford, Gale Sayers and Bart Starr became members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame Monday, along with Forrest Gregg and Bill Willis, and all three expressed the opinion — from their own particular viewpoints — that the college player draft is a necessity.

Gifford and Sayers, once star running backs for the New York Giants and Chicago Bears, respectively, and Starr, the former quarterback and presently head coach of the Green Bay Packers, were present at Monday's official announcement of their election. Gregg, once an offensive line star for the Packers and now the head coach of the Cleveland Browns, and Willis, who starred on both lines for the Cleveland Browns, could not attend the news conference held the morning of the National Football League's Pro Bowl.

All five, chosen by the Hall's 29-member Board of Selectors, will be inducted into the shrine at Canton, Ohio, on July 30.

Gifford, now a television network sportscaster, Sayers, the athletic director at Southern Illinois University and Starr expressed opinions of the NFL college draft, threatened by legal entanglements, from a personal standpoint.

"I don't think anyone wants to turn on the television every week and see a 47-7 games,' said Gifford, a part of the ABC team televising Monday night football including the Pro Bowl. "We need the draft. It's a necessity to maintain competitive balance."

Gifford was the Giant's No. 1 draft choice from Southern California in 1952. Sayers, who played college ball at Kansas, was the Bears' top draft choice in 1965. He, too, expressed support of the draft as a means of keeping balance and order in the league—but he added: "I'm more involved with the NCAA (college sports' ruling body), trying to figure out what they're up to."

And when Starr was asked if he thought a draft was needed to insure the spreading around of college talent, he quipped: "If you've ever spent time in Green Bay late in November, you know what my answer would be."

Starr, a 17th-round draft choice from Alabama in 1956, didn't attain stardom until the 1960s, the Packers Vince Lombardi era. "The low point of my career was 1958. I had a real poor season and it was the year preceding Vince's arrival," said Starr, who admitted he wasn't surprised at being a Hall of Fame selection "but only that the five-year waiting period was up so soon."

Sayers, though, said he was somewhat taken aback. "I didn't think I had a chance," he admitted. "I was in the league seven years but I actually played only 4½." His career was cut short by a series of knee injuries.

Tennis no-show problem

PLEASANTON — People who reserve the city's indoor tennis courts and don't show up will be charged an additional dollar the next time they wish to reserve a court.

The policy was instituted because of a growing number of no - shows, according to Director of Human Resources Robert Caporusso.

If participants notify Tennis Faire at least three hours in advance of their cancellation, the additional fee will not be charged.

For any questions about the policy, call the department at 846-3202, ext. 215, or Tennis Faire, 846-3770.

Weaving course offered

The Incas did it.

The Egyptians did it. And now you, too, can learn the secrets of the ancient art of weaving — by joining a Livermore Adult School course (free, except for a $4 registration fee).

"Learn how, with a minimum of materials, you can weave your very own wall hanging," ays Wilma Myers, instructor for the off - loom weaving course.

"Find your own best directions and move toward forman weaving, basketry or jewelry, and experience the delight of your own growth in good design in this exciting form of arts and crafts."

Mrs. Myers has taught many adults and children this technique of weaving. Her experience ranges from teaching individuals to study groups, and she has held workshops and classes in schools, galleries and craft shops, giving many lectures and demonstrations.

The 9-week course meets each Tuesday evening and registrations are being accepted now at the Adult School Office, 3044 East Ave., phone 447-6671.

Finally, Vantage Longs.

The first long cigarette to bring good taste to low-tar smoking.

Like a lot of smokers you may like the idea of a longer cigarette. You may also want low tar.

But longer cigarettes usually have more tar. Well, Vantage just wouldn't go along with that.

So we worked. Until we could perfect a longer cigarette with the famous Vantage combination of full flavor and low tar. Not the lowest long cigarette you can find. But very possibly the lowest that you will enjoy.

New Vantage Longs. A blend of flavor-rich tobaccos with tar levels held down to the point where good taste still comes through.

That's the Vantage point. And that's the point of Vantage Longs. Never before has there been a long cigarette quite like it.

Try a pack today and see if you go along with us.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.
